

GROWING INTEREST IN BARGAIN DAY.

The Committee Appointments Were Announced This Morning.

Better Shopping Center—August 1

and indications point to a most remarkable collection of special offerings along all lines on August 1. The merchants held a big meeting last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and got down to business. Because of the absence of Mayor W. W. W. the meeting last evening delegated Secretary J. Fred Kurtz of the Chamber of Commerce to serve in that capacity and elected George S. Connell of The Courier as secretary. Chairman Kurtz made his committee appointments this morning.

The executive committee of five men recommended the appointment of a chair to take charge of the Bargain Day, to outline the course of action to be followed in preparing the bargains and properly presenting them before the public, was named as follows:

Chairman, W. M. Leche; F. R. Graham, J. H. Bays, J. M. Blair and T. J. Hooper. One man was selected from each of five lines of trade.

The chair was also directed to appoint a committee of one from each line to enlist the services of others in his particular business. Chairman made the following appointments:

Drugs, F. H. Harmoning; Groceries, P. H. Belgiche; Music, W. E. Muroson; Meats, W. T. Muir, Paints and Wall Paper, A. S. Gettys. Department Stores, A. J. Kobackier; Furniture, J. H. Hoppert; Hardware, J. H. Hoppert; Shoes, T. Hoopert; Millinery, Mrs. J. C. Foltz. Those named were selected from among those who have already signified their intention of joining the movement and who have, up to this time, manifested an activity in the movement.

The committee to see all merchants in their various lines and enlist their cooperation. Other appointments in lines not covered by the above list will be announced later.

At the meeting last evening all present agreed that the proposition of the movement was a good one and a sentiment was unanimously expressed in favor of the movement. There was a dissenting voice here and there, but only against details and not the general plan.

Harry raised the question that the jewellers were at a disadvantage because they had no department in the movement and no one of their lines. This was answered in a snappy talk from A. B. Kuller, who declared the jewellers were entitled to offer just as good bargains as the other merchants in any other line of business.

Mr. Kuhn's denials are quite seasonably received, and the speaker is as successful in offering bargains and getting business, as the others. This sentiment was applauded and had a tendency to convince other dubious ones that successful bargain days are not limited to department stores.

The idea of the bargain day is not to get business for one day but to implore outside trade to visit Council-ville and be convinced that this is the best place in the coke region to shop.
Henry Dunn declared the merchants are going to a free trade, advancing the theory that Councilville is not the shopping center it was five years ago. The next meeting will be held Wednesday evening.

Repairs at Baptist Church.
During the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. A. E. Falkquist, who is in ing a vacation with relatives in and near Philadelphia, the First Baptist church is undergoing a number of improvements. The interior of the church is being refrescoed.

BABY PITIFUL SIGHT WITH ECZEMA

Completely Covered, Bandaged from Head to Foot, Dared Not Wash Him, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment 4 Weeks and He Was Cured.

"A few days after birth we noticed an inflamed spot on our baby's hip which soon began spreading until the whole hip was covered. The inflammation was very violent and even in his eyes, ears and scalp. For eight weeks he was banded from head to foot. He could not move a single limb. He had a stitch of clothing on. Our regular physician pronounced him a hopeless case. He was very feeble, and we consulted several very able physicians and ranks with the best in this locality, none of whom could cure him. At last the disease began spreading until baby was completely covered. He was losing flesh and strength and we were about to give up when we decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"Not until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment did I see any improvement. He looked like, as we dared not wash him, and I had been putting one application after another, that he was dying. After the first application his head the hair came out, and left him almost entirely bald, but when we have been using Cuticura Soap and Ointment he has much hair as ever. Four weeks after we began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he has more hair than when he was born. He has been having eczema worse than our baby.

"Before we used the Cuticura Remedies we were told by a friend that we could not cure a pitiful sight. He would fuss until I would be unable to hold him. He would cry and fret and fret, they seemed so relieved so much that we could not give up. We tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the result they could not give and surely bring is the known recommendation." (Signed) Mrs. T. H. Houser, Niles, Mich., Jan. 1, 1900.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Dept. 23A, Boston, U.S.A., for sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on it. Skin

It is difficult to understand upon what basis the Bureau of Corporations estimated the value of the coals and coke property of the company in 1901. It is stated that the H. C. The coke ovens and improvements were physically worth at a low estimate $200 per oven, and the coal not less than $1,800

CHAPTER VI.

THE FINISH WITH THE POLICE.

MR. GRAYMAN and the commissioner were impatient because their train was a quarter of an hour late in leaving Albany. Mr. Grayman's faith in his police ally had been growing, and he now looked upon him as an able detective and a man of resources. His only anxiety was lest Payton, feeling sure that he had told the police, would stay away. The commissioner had succeeded in driving from the millionaire's mind the fear of injury to his daughter in case Payton suspected treachery.

"They always make such threats," he said, "but they never execute them, because why—it wouldn't pay. They know their chances for a ransom would be gone then. You may try to trap a kidnaper as often as you like, but he will never consent to it until every possible card has been played. Payton has not a hundred cards up his sleeve."

Arrived at the station for Tribes Hill, they had a long uphill walk to the scene of the rendezvous. The commissioner's sharpshooters in all sorts of disguises popped up here and there and were sent to hide in places in the neighborhood. As they approached the bluff the commissioner parted from his employer.

"I'll leave you here," he said, "and go to my station over yonder, from which, as I told you, I will make the signal. We may have to wait some time, but I reckon that he'll be along early, and won't be surprised though I occupy his attention as long as possible. Promise him anything and everything. You can afford it, you know."

The commissioner laughed heartily at his own pleasantry, and then he separated for the respective stations. When Mr. Grayman was alone the affair began to assume a different aspect. Once more his shrewd doubts returned, and he said to himself that he must have become an infernal idiot to expose his life and liberty in this manner. He, William Grayman, with his billions to walk into the jaws of a tiger with his eyes open to the danger!

Suddenly a voice sounded over his head. Glancing upward, Mr. Grayman was almost startled out of his senses by seeing right above him an aero, with the wings of a bat, and other things that he swept gracefully to the ground, and an elegantly attired gentleman calmly stepped down from its deck and, politely removing his hat, advanced with outstretched hand and smiling smile toward the millionaire.

"Good morning, Mr. Grayman," he said in a voice of wonderful sweetness. "I'm delighted to see you here. I am Captain Alfonso Payton, with whom you had a distant conversation the day before yesterday. I am happy to observe how rigidly you keep your appointments, although that does not surprise me, for, of course, 'like all the world, I know your business reputation. But you do me great honor, sir."

"I had to venture it," he soliloquized. "I don't see that there was any other way—except I was a fool. And what have I gained? Almost it would have been better to pay the money and let the scoundrel go—if he surrendered Helen safe."

Then he tried to imagine what Payton would do. Would he keep him a prisoner? Did that mean he would have a billion? No, he would not. He would pay $10,000,000 to have him released. Was his life in danger? No, he did not think so. The commissioner's reasoning on that point seemed sound. In such affairs as this, Payton was a man of honor. At moments he debated whether he should not now offer to pay the ransom and have done with it. He could afford it, enormous though the sum was. He had cleared fifty millions during the past year. Why was he turning the subject in his mind the door opened and Payton entered.

"Mr. Grayman," he said in his most winning manner, "I give you my word as a gentleman that I am impossibly pained by what has occurred. It was not my intention to carry you off as a prisoner, but you know as well as I do that I was compelled."

"You promised me immunity if I would meet you," interposed Mr. Grayman.

"And you broke the convention by coming to the rendezvous and making a secret of it to a whole fleet," laughed Payton. "But for my means of learning the designs of my enemies, I should have been beautifully trapped. But now I let that pass. I am willing to overlook it in view of your inexperience in such affairs as this. You are now, by force of circumstances, in a position where it will be impossible for any further interruption of our private conversation to occur, and we may proceed with the business in the most amicable spirit."

The easy self-assurance of this speech, and Payton's cool assumption that he was the injured party quite dumfounded Mr. Grayman. He saw the game well enough, but he did not see a way to meet it. He felt a desire to throttle the fellow. "Where is my daughter?" he demanded.

Payton smiled provokingly as he replied, "She is where no police in the world can ever find her and where she will remain in my charge until the ransom is paid or until."

Payton purposely did not finish the sentence, but remained silent, looking straight into the millionaire's eyes. If it was his plan to shake his prisoner's nerves he was fairly successful. "I do not want any harm to come to you or your daughter, but I must have the ten millions. You have the money; I have the girl. You can afford the price, and she is worth it to you or to any other man in this world. But I don't want it. I want only the money."

where Helen shall be surrendered to you if you faithfully keep your engagement. Will you do that?"

"Suppose I refuse?"

"Payton's lip curled. "Then you will not return to New York!"

"Then I will carry you home myself with the Chameleon!"

Mr. Grayman reflected. "What harm to promising?" he asked himself. "A promise extorted under compulsion is not a promise at all. It is a mere chance. Once at liberty I'll not be fool enough to put myself in his power again. Some way will open up."

"Well," he said aloud, "then I'll say yes."

"Good!" responded Payton. "Splendid! Good sense! It gives the order to sail New Yorkward at once."

Payton had read the millionaire's thoughts as if they had been printed. He knew that at present Mr. Grayman had no intention of meeting him on the terms he had prescribed, but would once more try to entrap him. Yet unless he released him now he could never hope for the money.

He rose and left Grayman alone in the cabin, but within a few minutes returned, saying, "Come out, Mr. Grayman, and convince yourself that you are homeward bound."

Rather unwillingly the millionaire ventured upon the deck. They were still very high, but were flying southward at great speed.

"These are the Catkills away over yonder," said Payton, pointing. "I could land you in New York in a little over an hour, but to visit the metropolis after nightfall. It is now only 1 o'clock. We'll take lunch and then circle about a bit and see the country. If you like you can run out to Niagara and see how the great cataract looks to a bird."

"But my daughter!" cried the millionaire eagerly. "Since you will have the money anyway and the speed of your craft is so great take me to her."

"She is in no danger. She doesn't even know she is a prisoner. She replied the sky pirate lightly. "Why alarm her now?"

Late that evening passersby in Fifth avenue were startled by seeing a huge aero glide silently over their heads. Shortly after the Chameleon settled gently upon the grass in a park, and Payton, without any sign of nervousness or hurry, ceremoniously dismissed his guest in the very face of a policeman.

"Goodby and an revoir," said Payton, waving Mr. Grayman's unwilling hand. "You'll hear from me in a few days. Don't forget your promise or the need that your daughter has of the aid which you alone can give her."

Without replying Mr. Grayman turned on his heel and walked rapidly away. Payton remained on the ground regarding his retreating form with a doubtful smile. The policeman was rapidly approaching, but Payton made no move.

"Here, you!" said the officer, seizing Payton by the arm. "I arrest you. What are you doing with an aero in the park?"

The Pennsylvania Railroad's Plans

Preparations for moving during the next three months about a half billion passengers—more than 60 per cent of the number carried the whole of last year—have been completed by the railroad of the country, and tariff sheets on interstate rates have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington. About 200 railroads concur in the arrangements for handling the summer travel east of the Mississippi river.

These facts and others are brought out in statistics compiled by the Pennsylvania railroad in preparing for the summer, when approximately 50,000,000 passengers will be hauled on the lines of its system. A large majority of these will be excursionists. Special rates are named to 804 resorts this side of the Mississippi. The seashore, mountain and quiet country places are included in this number.

An important feature of the arrangements for summer travel on the Pennsylvania covers personally conducted tours to Lake George, Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands, Yellowstone Park, California, Gettysburg and Washington. In addition to a number of other far-away points, in North America. These tours are made under the direction of the Personally Conducted Tourist System of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Inducing people to ride on days when equipment is plentiful is what the railroad is doing in their summer business this year. This is shown in the fact that nearly all of the Pennsylvania's special excursions start on Thursday, a day when equipment is not needed for week-end travel, and the day when the average housewife in the small town takes her laundry inquiry at the Pennsylvania's passenger department develops the fact that every Thursday in the summer is taken up by excursions.

WEDDING POSTPONED

But Bride Says She Will Wait Thirtieth Day.

The cruel hand of the law Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock placed its iron grasp upon the shoulder of a bride, hunched his belt and broke up a wedding ceremony and perhaps caused the postponement of an expected honeymoon. Jack Rodgers, of Vanderbilt, was the near groom while the bride was Miss Lucy Nick, also from Vanderbilt.

At the last term of criminal court Rodgers was the prosecutor in a case charging assault and battery, and carrying concealed weapons. The case was ignored the the costs placed on the prosecutor.

Since that time District Attorney Henderson has been trying to locate Rodgers to have him settle for the charges. Thursday, Charles Rodgers, on his way to Dawson happened to see Rodgers and the girl on a West Penn car enroute to Uniontown. At the first opportunity Rodgers left the car and telephoned the Sheriff's office to have the deputy of the outlook.

In a few moments the car arrived and the man and woman alighted and Rodgers, who was in the car, was taken to the jail. Rodgers was placed under arrest by Deputy Poo.

Rodgers protested, claiming that a mistake had been made.

"I am not the man you want," he said. "There has been some mistake. I am George Rodgers. The man you want is a twin brother and is now at Derry, Pa., working as a railroad engineer."

Rodgers attempted to walk away from the deputy, claiming that he wanted to go to the bank to get money to settle for the costs in the case. As he started down the marble steps leading out to the street between the court house and the jail, the girl followed out. "Look! Look!" she wanted to tell him something.

However, the deputy would not allow him to start. The girl followed him and when he was about to be led into the "back room" she threw arms around his neck and kissed him passionately. The man was locked up with the other prisoners, and the near-bride left the jail declaring that she would wait thirty days for him.

REDUCE TONNAGES.

Ship Owners Will Endeavor to Break the Seamen's Strike.

LONDON, England, June 30.—(Special.)—The Shipping Federation, which controls 90 per cent of the coast and trans-Atlantic trade of Great Britain, has determined to make no concessions to the striking seamen and dock hands.

At a meeting today it was determined to lay up one-half of the total tonnage. The men who have remained loyal will be apportioned among the remaining vessels, and a determined effort will be made to break the strike.

This "Stevens" sale is an advertising proposition pure and simple—your advantage is a superior grade of goods at a special low price—my profit in making good new regulations and winning their confidence. Stevens mountings are the best in the world—they occupy the same position in the optical trade as "Rogers Bros., 1817" do in the silver line, and "Elgin" or "Waltham" do in the watch business.

SUCH A STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT no doubt makes you ask if it is absolutely bonafide and if so why I do it. The whole story is this. I have decided to make (this unheard of sacrifice of regular $3.00 and $5.00 gold-filled glasses at $1 for balance of week to gain their full support and patronage of Connellsville people and thus build up an extensive optical business. The lenses are the same I sell in my regular lines, every one fully guaranteed, and I use just as much care in fitting your eyes. Difficult cases a specialty.

Headaches and nervousness, and other troubles far remote from the eye are oftentimes the direct result of an eye strain which if corrected with the proper glasses would give immediate relief. It is not necessary for the eye to be sore to indicate the need of glasses. In many cases the eye may be perfectly healthy, and glasses may be needed for the reason which are only apparent to the physician and skilled eye specialist.

EXAMINATION FREE.

During this wonderful sale I will be in charge and every patient will get a scientific examination and the glasses properly adjusted. REMEMBER I am making this sale to build up my business and cannot afford to exaggerate. Special prices during sale on specially ground lenses and bifocals.

For balance of week only "Stevens S. Q." Gold filled Eyeglass mountings—every pair guaranteed by the makers—fitted with our own lenses—including examination, $1.00.

All "Stevens" frames and mountings are stamped on the bridge—"Stevens S. Q."—look for it—don't take my word. They are gold filled—not gold plated—permanently guaranteed by Stevens & Co. (Inc.) of Providence, R. I., and myself—and will be replaced at any time if they fail to give satisfaction.

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles.

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 12 inches from the eye with ease and without strain. When the eye is defective and should be corrected with spectacles, it is unable to do so. If the eye is not corrected, it will strain itself to see, and this strain will result in a permanent injury to the vision. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure the defect and restore the vision to normal."

$50 REWARD.

I have no agents and will pay the above reward for the arrest and conviction of persons claiming to be me or my representative.

Coke Yards Beat Central Diggers

There was a great go-as-you-please game at Central Thursday when the coke yard team defeated the miners 15 to 12. Both sides held without an error but hit the pitchers freely. The coke yard scored 10 runs in the first three innings, a lead the diggers tried gallantly to overcome but failed. After the fourth inning there were not so many runs as the twirlers lightened up.

The feature of the game was the playing of Shinsky, the coke yard pitcher. He only has one arm but plays a better than most fellows do with two. The score:

Trauger Lost to United Sluggers

Trauger received a surprise on Thursday when United won 6 to 1 in nine innings on the Trauger grounds. The Trauger boys have been making a clean sweep through the First Division and it is violating no secrets to say they expected to get off without a defeat. United put a cramp in this hope, however, and won by hitting the ball hard when hits meant runs. Trauger made a gallant ninth inning rally but it fell short. The score:
